Dr. Pallavi Shirsat Honored with Fellowship of the National Kidney Foundation; Celebrated for Her Editorial Leadership and Community Advocacy

[Minden, Louisiana] — [August 7, 2025] — Dr. Pallavi Shirsat, a distinguished nephrologist committed to advancing kidney health and patient care, has been awarded the prestigious Fellow of the National Kidney Foundation (FNKF) designation. This esteemed recognition honors her exemplary contributions to the field of nephrology, academic medicine, and community outreach.

Dr. Shirsat serves as Associate Editor for two respected peer-reviewed medical journals, Cureus and the Journal of Medical Case Reports, where she plays a pivotal role in shaping high-quality clinical scholarship and advancing evidence-based medical knowledge.

A passionate advocate for kidney disease awareness and prevention, Dr. Shirsat recently spearheaded a successful community fundraising event to support education, early detection, and treatment programs for chronic kidney disease (CKD). The event brought together patients, caregivers, healthcare professionals, and community members in a shared mission to fight kidney disease and promote lifelong kidney health.

“It’s an honor to receive the FNKF designation,” said Dr. Shirsat. “This recognition reflects not only my dedication to nephrology but also the collective efforts of my colleagues, patients, and the community. I remain deeply committed to advancing clinical care, research, and outreach in the battle against kidney disease.”

With a growing national presence in both academic and clinical nephrology, Dr. Shirsat continues to inspire peers and patients alike through her leadership, compassion, and advocacy.
